

Brazilian wind and solar energy storage

Overview

Why is wind energy so important in Brazil?

The construction of wind farms in Brazil is in great demand today. Wind energy plays an increasingly important role in the country's energy sector. In 2019, 10% of all energy consumed in Brazil came from wind power plants, second only to hydroelectric power plants, which generated 64% of energy in the same period.

Are wind and solar energy resources a complementary resource in Brazil?

In the light of the current moment of transformation of the electricity sector in Brazil and elsewhere, with a growing uptake of utility-scale wind and solar power plants, this work shows that the temporal complementary of wind and solar resources in the Brazilian Northeast is consistent and it can have a major role in the optimal portfolio design.

Will Brazil conduct the first energy storage auction?

Brazil is set to conduct the country's first-ever energy storage auction for adding batteries and storage systems to the national power grid.

Will Brazil's energy auction improve power grid reliability?

Interest in the auction has been expressed by power companies such as Portugal's EDP and Brazil's ISA Energia. The auction will enhance Brazil's power grid reliability by integrating energy storage solutions for electricity generated from renewable sources such as wind and solar. US Tariffs are shifting - will you react or anticipate?
